Bodyrade: “Thirty.”

CONCEPT

The idea

One question opens it: how many sessions are in one pouch? A 300g pouch of Orange & Mango drops onto a matte navy set, and the routine plays once in full: a level 10g scoop through the funnel into the capsule, the capsule locked into the bottle, cold water in, base back on, release, shake. A counter clicks to 01.

Then it plays again, and again, each loop a little faster, while the counter races up and the pouch gets slimmer. At 30 the ring closes and the empty pouch folds flat: thirty servings, each one mixed at the moment of use. It ends on your own line, ONLY MIX IT FRESH, and “Register for a sample”.

HOOK · FIRST 3.5 SECONDS

How many sessions are in one pouch?

END LINE

Thirty servings. Each one mixed fresh.

What I found

- Website (bodyrade.com, checked 2 Nov 2026): each flavour page lists a “300g resealable pouch” with “30 x 10g servings”, the pack photo shows the “pouch with measuring scoop”, and the routine reads: “load one 10g serving into the dry upper capsule, fill the main chamber with cold water, keep powder and water separate while carrying, then release, shake and drink when ready.” The home page adds “ONLY MIX IT FRESH” and “Register for a sample”, and the supplements page says “Take one serving 20 minutes before training”. The home page lists all three flavours as “COMING SOON! - Contact for details”, but the flavour pages show “Sold out” at £29.99 and the bottle page “Sold out” at £0.00.
- Your earlier concepts: one moment (“Twist. Drop. Fresh.”), the engineering (“Locked In Fresh.”), one day (“Since 7am.”) and one flavour (“Deliberately Sour.”). None shows the pouch, or what a whole pouch adds up to.
- Pinterest (logged-out search grids): “satisfying 3D loop” animations are rewatchable cause-and-effect machines (marble runs, rings dropping, shapes stacking) that loop cleanly. Supplement pouch renders are mostly pouches floating on pastel colour blocks with fruit bursting out. We borrow the loop and skip the floating pouches and fruit explosions.

Why it works

- It opens with a question people answer in their heads. Everyone guesses, and the counter keeps them watching for the answer.
- It’s satisfying, and it loops. The same routine, faster each time, with a counter ticking up, is the kind of clip people watch twice. The last frame cuts cleanly back to the first.
- It teaches the routine once. The first session shows every step; after that, the speed does the talking.
- It shows value without a price. “30 servings in one pouch” is a fact from your product pages, and no price appears while the pages still say “Sold out”.
- Every element lands on its word, so it works with the sound on or off.

Why it’s new

It’s the first concept about the pouch, and about a whole pouch rather than one moment or one day. It brings a new object, a new device (an accelerating loop with a counter) and a new look (a matte set, a locked side-on camera and a top-down insert) to your navy palette, so your feed still reads as one campaign.

STORYBOARD: SIX KEY FRAMES

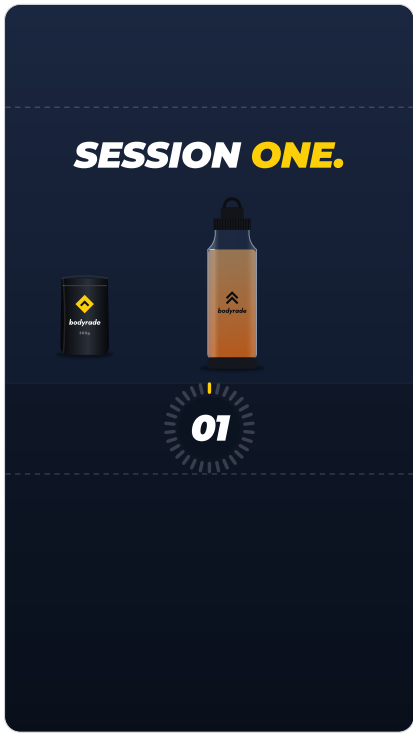

Layout sketches in your colours and type; the final is a 3D render, with the pouch and bottle modelled from your own artwork. The dashed lines mark the text-safe area (y = 270 to 1240 px at 1080 × 1920): every word sits between them, clear of the Reels caption area and buttons.

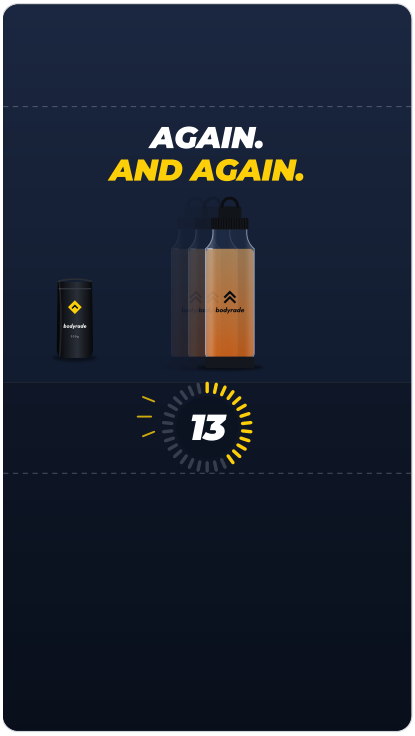

1 · Hook · 0:03
The question types in on “sessions”; on “one pouch” the 300g pouch drops onto the floor and lands. The counter waits at 00.

2 · Load · 0:05.5
On “ten grams” a level 10g scoop from the pouch tips through the funnel; on “capsule” the bottle slides in to take it.

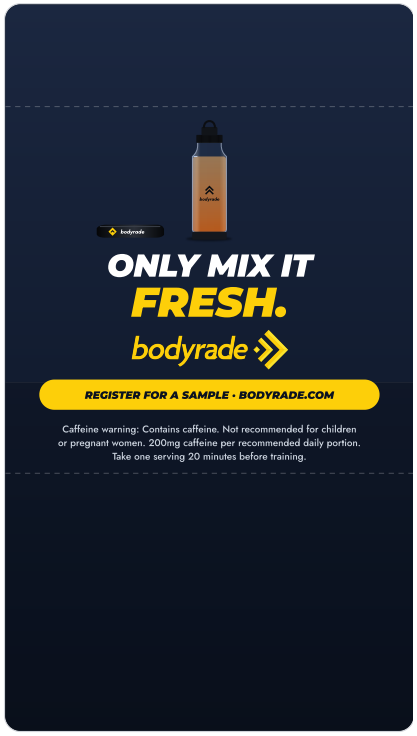

3 · Session one · 0:13
Only SESSION ONE. on screen. Released and shaken, the drink is mixed, and the counter flips to 01.

4 · The loop · 0:18.5
On the third “again” the cuts drop to 0.25 s and the counter spins on; the pouch is slimmer every cycle.

5 · Thirty · 0:23.5
On “thirty” the counter lands on 30 and “/ 30” appears; on “one pouch” the empty pouch folds flat.

6 · End card · 0:28.5
ONLY MIX IT FRESH., the sample pill, the caffeine warning, the directions and the logo, with everything above y 1240.

SCRIPT AND SYNC SHEET

29.5 seconds at 120 BPM, so every beat change falls on a half-second. 48 spoken words, about 19 seconds at a calm 150 words a minute. The voiceover is optional; the on-screen words carry it with the sound off. Highlighted words are cues: each element enters on its word, and small tags (300G, 330ML, "/ 30", the caffeine warning) arrive with their element. Captions match the voiceover, with "bodyrade dot com" written as bodyrade.com.

BEAT	VOICEOVER	ON SCREEN	WHAT MOVES
1 · Hook 0:00–0:03.5	"How many sessions are in one pouch?"	HOW MANY SESSIONS IN ONE POUCH?	• sessions: line 1 types in and the empty counter ring appears at 00. • one pouch: line 2 stamps in; the 300g pouch drops into frame and lands with a thud, and a yellow 300G tag pops beside it.
2 · Load 0:03.5–0:07	"Ten grams into the capsule."	10G INTO THE CAPSULE.	• Ten grams: a level 10g scoop from the pouch tips through the funnel. • capsule: the bottle slides in, and the filled capsule locks down onto its neck with a click.
3 · Water 0:07–0:10	"Cold water in. Base back on."	COLD WATER IN. BASE BACK ON.	• Cold water in: cut to a top-down insert looking into the open base as cold water swirls up to the printed line, with a small 330ML tag. • Base back on: from above, the base spins shut; cut back to the side-on shot.
4 · Session one 0:10–0:14	"Release. Shake. Session one."	SESSION ONE.	• Release: in the same locked side-on shot, the capsule releases and the powder falls as a straight orange column through the water. • Shake: one sharp shake, and the drink turns an even orange. • Session one: SESSION ONE. stamps in, the counter flips 00 to 01 and the first tick lights yellow.
5 · The loop 0:14–0:20	"Again. (0:14) And again. (0:16) And again. (0:18)"	AGAIN. AND AGAIN.	• First again: the whole routine replays as one match-cut loop; sessions 02–03 at 1 s each. • Second again: 04–07 at 0.5 s each. • Third again: 0.25 s cuts while the counter spins 08–29. The pouch slims a little every cycle.
6 · Thirty 0:20–0:24	"Thirty servings in one pouch. Each one mixed fresh."	30 SERVINGS. EACH ONE MIXED FRESH.	• Thirty: the counter lands on 30, "/ 30" appears and the ring closes with a yellow flash. • one pouch: the empty pouch folds flat on the floor. • mixed fresh: line 2 stamps in.
7 · End card 0:24–0:29.5	"Only mix it fresh. Register for a sample at bodyrade dot com."	ONLY MIX IT FRESH. REGISTER FOR A SAMPLE · BODYRADE.COM + caffeine warning and directions	• Only mix it fresh: the headline stamps in. • Register: the sample pill slides up, with the caffeine warning and "Take one serving 20 minutes before training." under it. • bodyrade: the real logo slides in, chevrons first. • 0:29: everything drops out, leaving frame 1's empty floor, so the Reel loops.

4:5 feed cut (1080 × 1350, 17 s): beats 1 and 4, the last 2 s of beat 5 (0:18–0:20, "And again."), beat 6, and the end card trimmed to 3.5 s (3.5 + 4 + 2 + 4 + 3.5), cropped from the 9:16 master at y 200–1550 so the headline, counter and every line stay in. The bottle appears already loaded and filled in beat 4, and ONLY MIX IT FRESH. enters with the pill on "Register". Voiceover (30 words): "How many sessions are in one pouch? Release. Shake. Session one. And again. Thirty servings in one pouch. Each one mixed fresh. Register for a sample at bodyrade dot com."

LOOK, MOTION AND SOUND

- Set and camera: a matte navy seamless with one soft top light (no glossy floor, rim light or collar glow, unlike "Since 7am."), a locked side-on camera and a top-down insert for the water.
- Pouch and scoop: your real 300g pouch and its measuring scoop, modelled from the pack artwork (the sketch shows the yellow diamond mark). The pouch deflates a notch each cycle and folds flat at 30.
- The bottle: clear, with rounded shoulders, one black ribbed collar with the slim capsule tube, a small screw cap with carry loop and a black base. Check it against your CAD.
- Powder and drink: Orange & Mango only, in the orange your photos show. Don't recolour it.
- Type: Montserrat Black Italic for headlines and the counter, Jost for small text, logo yellow #FDCF09. "/ 30" only appears at the end, so the answer stays a surprise.
- Motion: the first session plays in full; repeats run at 1 s, then 0.5 s, then 0.25 s cuts on the same frame positions, and in the last two seconds the counter spins on faster than the cuts.
- Sound: pouch thud, scoop tap, capsule click, a swirl of water from above, a base twist, one sharp shake, and one rising click per counter tick, with a deep hit on 30. Music: a dry 120 BPM percussive track; sessions land on half, quarter, then eighth notes, so the loop speeds up while the tempo stays locked.
- How to make it: Cinema 4D or Blender (pouch cloth sim, powder, water); loop edit and type in After Effects. Voice optional: calm, British, dry; burn in captions if used.

- From bodyrade.com: "300g resealable pouch", "30 x 10g servings", the routine, "330ml", "pouch with measuring scoop", "ONLY MIX IT FRESH", "Take one serving 20 minutes before training", "Register for a sample", the flavour line, formula, caffeine warning (word for word) and origin line.
- "Sessions": the site says "Take one serving 20 minutes before training", so one serving is one session. The video never says "a month" or "30 days".
- Left out: prices, comparisons, "Fresh every time" (after 30 servings from an opened pouch it could read as a potency claim), "No clumping, no potency loss", "airtight", "world's first multi patented" and the site's blood flow, energy and strength claims (UK health-claim rules).

Before posting: the flavour pages say "Sold out" at £29.99 and the bottle page "Sold out" at £0.00, while the home page says "COMING SOON! - Contact for details": make them match and hide the prices. The REGISTER FOR A SAMPLE button links to /pages/contact, a plain form with no sample terms, so add them. If any part is AI-generated, turn on the AI label on Instagram, Facebook and TikTok.
